Wall Street Review

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Feb. 19.—Stocks displayed a firm tone at the opening of today's market with buying orders spread over a representative list of rails and industrials. Baldwin moved up almost a point, under impetus of short covering and Mack Trucks advanced 1/2. Southern rails were active. Texas & Pacific reaching a new top at 55 1/2.

Specialties took a more permanent part in subsequent dealings. Fluctuations in popular industrials were narrow, but 36 auto program was made under the leadership of Baldwin, which extended its rise to 137 1/2. Gains of 3 points were made by General Electric, American Express and Commercial Solvents. A. white advances of 2 or more were made by Utah Securities, Universal Pipe preferred and United Clear Stores. Copper was reactionary due to lower prices of the metal and the market snapped back vigorously around noon, carrying United States Stores up 7 1/2 points to a record top at 75. Call money opened at 3/4 per cent and then dropped to 3/8.

PROGRAM FOR DIXON LEGION'S VAUDEVILLE SHOW THIS EVENING

The Legion's big All-Star Vaudeville Show to be given tonight in the Dixon Theater is all set and ready to go. The curtain will go up promptly at 8:15 and as his been stated in the Telegraph no one will be seated during any act. It is, therefore, important that the patrons arrive at the Theatre in plenty of time before the curtain is scheduled to go up.

The seats are going fast, but there are still a number of the best seats unsold. The Legion is very optimistic and feel confident that every seat will be sold by the time the curtain goes up. They deserve the support of the public for if there was ever a show that will give the public their money's worth, it will be tonight. Following is the complete program:

Stokes Wins Fight to Keep Correspondence Out
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Feb. 19.—Judge W. N. Gemmill today upheld objection of counsel for W. E. D. Stokes, charged with conspiracy to defame Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, to the admission of testimony based on affidavits and correspondence of Stokes' agents.

Though an hour's conference was held in chambers on a demand of the state that the defense produce affidavits had correspondence in his possession, the defense did not produce them and the court issued his decision.

The tenor of the decision was further indicated when the judge blocked the admission of oral evidence based on the affidavits and correspondence.

ECONOMY IN TAXATION IS PRES.' PLEA

case, except the present, has withdrawn from the reason for exceptional taxation ceased. The emergency created by the great war, when last the federal government entered the field has ended. The right to inherit property owes its existence, not to any federal law, but to the laws of the states. Federal estate taxation, therefore, has not the natural excuse which is conceded to state inheritance taxation. The federal government, being in the field, however, practically with rates as excessive as those recently adopted, results in a very material decrease in the amount and value of the property upon which the states levy their inheritance taxes. If the states are to suffer diminution in revenue from this source, they can make up their losses only by higher taxes in other fields.

"Already the taxes levied by the states upon land are so high as to menace the property of the farmer. For the sake of the revenue which the federal government receives from this source—being in the last fiscal year only $103,000,000 out of $2,700,000,000 total internal revenue taxes for that year—the federal government should be careful to see that indirectly it is not taxing the very person whom it wishes to relieve. While we may not be able to absorb so great a loss in one year of revenue, we could provide for gradual retirement from the field as our government expenses decreased."

Mr. Fleming was a young man of excentric character and was in the best of health and spirits. He came to the city to remain at the Plouff residence with the other family members, during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Plouff in New York City. He was about the city yesterday with no premonition of the impending tragedy.

Relatives Called.
Mr. and Mrs. Plouff were in Chicago on their homeward way and were reached this morning at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Plouff arriving this morning, but not in time to see her brother alive. Miss Maud Fleming, sister of the deceased, was to have left last evening on the late train for Chicago to assist Mr. Plouff in selecting the spring stocks for Lauenman Brothers' millinery department, but the fatal accident prevented her from going.

Born in Mapleton.

SHOT HIMSELF WHILE GETTING READY FOR HUNT

Wm. Fleming, Known in Dixon, Victim of Accident.

The following from a Marquette, Wis., paper tells of the accidental death of William B. Fleming, son of the late John Fleming, who for many years was a motorman on the S. D. & E., making his home in this city. The young man lived in Dixon and Sterling for some time and was well known here. The story in the Marquette paper is:

William B. Fleming, 38 years old, a brother of Mrs. L. T. Plouff and Miss Maud Fleming of this city, met with a fatal accident last evening about 7:30 at the Plouff residence, 1431 Newberry avenue.

Gun Discharges.
He was fixing a gun preparatory to going on a wolf hunt with local friends shortly. In some unaccountable manner the weapon was discharged, the contents entering his abdomen, going clear through the body, emerging from his back.

He was hurried to the M. & M. hospital, but in spite of the heroic efforts to save the young man, he died this morning at 10 o'clock.

The body was removed to the McLean Funeral Home to be prepared for burial and Friday morning will be taken to the Plouff residence.

Mr. Fleming was a young man of excentric character and was in the best of health and spirits. He came to the city to remain at the Plouff residence with the other family members, during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Plouff in New York City. WOODMAN, SPARE THAT TREE!
 Woodman, spare that tree!
 It's not a single bough
 In fruit or shelter me;
 And I'll protect it now,
 'Twas my grandfather's hand
 That placed it near his cot;
 Spare, woodman, let it stand,
 For it shall harm it not!

That old familiar tree.
 Whose glory and renown
 Are spread o'er land and sea,
 And wouldst thou how it down?
 Spare, woodman, let it stand;
 For it's the earth-bond ties,
 O spare that aged oak,
 Now towering to the skies!

When but an idle boy
 I caught its graceful shade;
 In all their gaudy joy
 Here too my sister played.
 My mother kissed me here;
 My father pressed my hand—
 Forgive this foolish tear,
 But let that old oak stand!

My heart-strings round thee cling
 Close as thy bark, old friend!
 Here too my sister played,
 And still thy branches bend.
 Old tree! the storm still braves!
 And woodman, leave the spot;
 While I've a hand to save,
 Thy axe shall harm it not.

—George P. Morris.

 seven being present, members and visitors. At noon an appetizing dinner was served.

The meeting opened with a song, and the reading of the Bible lesson by Mrs. Shippert, followed by prayer.

The lesson study was conducted by Mrs. Gaudin in a very interesting manner. The society decided, during the business session, to hold a home baking sale Saturday, Feb. 21. The business meeting closed with all repeating the Lord's prayer.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Martha Shippert.

A social time was much enjoyed by everyone after the business for the day was transacted.

Practical Club
Meeting Recorded

The members of the Practical club were pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. F. E. Ackert, 215 East Third street Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. H. L. Fordham read a paper showing much thought and time in preparation, entitled "Conservation of Our National Resources."

Roll call was answered with quotations from some of our famous Americans.

After the business of the day was transacted, very nice refreshments were served. Spring flowers were the lovely decorations.

Miss Margaret Caughey was a guest of the club for the afternoon.

Banquet and After- noon of Pleasure

Banqueting becomes a rare pleasure when it includes not only choice viands and agreeable companionship, but an interchange of story and experience culled from memory's storehouse. Such an event was participated in by a large representation from Dixon Chapter D. A. R. on Wednesday. After a delicious luncheon served at Miss Breed's the guests were invited to the home of Mrs. Burnham, the Regent for the afternoon. Under the leadership of Mrs. Abner Barlow the conversation took a reminiscent character and many incidents of the early life and accomplishments of Dixon were related by those in attendance, revealing a rich store of past events which we can ill afford to lose.

Dwells on Influence of State Universities

Chicago, Feb. 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—One of the "amazing developments of modern American life is the phenomenal growth in size, power and influence of state universities," Mrs. James W. Morrison, president of the Illinois League of Women Voters, said in an address tonight to members of the Illinois Art Extension committee.

"It is not so long since we were accustomed to look from our eastern friends about 'freshwater colleges' and we were disposed to be distinctly apologetic about them," said Mrs.
 Morrison. "But now, in state after state, we see these enormous plants with thousands of students—great professional and technical schools which number on their teaching staffs the ablest brains of America and of the world—and we realize that not the least significant thing about the growth of these colleges."

"The steady stream of youth that flows through these universities, absorbing information, training and ideals and going back to leave their communities the country over is, of course, the hope of the future for it remains eternally true, no matter how many times it may have been said, that no country, and particularly no democracy, can be better than the average intelligence of the average citizen."

"And of these institutions there is none that has a higher standard of work, a better record of young lives freshened and inspired and trained to reality, and thoroughly professional achievement along all its varied lines of endeavor, than has the University of Illinois."

One of the best works of the art extension committee has been to bring Illinois nearer to its citizens, Mrs.
 Morrison said. Films of various beauty spots in the state were classed as "a real Godsend" to many communities.

"So many of us tend to feel that only the big things are beautiful that are remote and only a few of us have time to hunt out beauty for ourselves.
 To do this for us, to remind us how much loveliness lies right here at our doors, how much cause for pride how much pure pleasure is here at our hand, is a service for which Illinois citizens cannot but be very grateful."

Enjoyable Banquet at Grace Church

The Golden Rule Circle of the Grace Evangelical church sponsored a banquet at the church on Monday evening, consisting of three courses, followed by a fine program. The special feature of the evening, as announced by the able toastmistress, Miss Cora Miller, was that those present were to take an aeroplane trip which was represented by some of the officers and workers of the Sunday school. The different speakers gave interesting remarks regarding the mechanism and successful flying and onward move of an airplane likened to a Sunday school.

The decorating committee, assisted by Miss Jennie Oakes had the room beautifully decorated, in harmony with the program, consisting of aeroplanes and valentines and attractive hand painted place cards adorned the tables.

A men's quartette, Miss Vivian Graves, Crew's brothers quartette and Miss Flora Belle Cheney rendered appreciated selections.

A number of those present had the pleasant surprise of viewing some (ancient) photos of themselves, showing the change of styles, looks, etc.
 The fellowship of the evening was enjoyed by all and especially by the men, who are hoping to have another occasion of this kind in the near future.

School Instruction Dorothy Chap. O. E. S.

Dorothy Chapter O. E. S., No. 371, will hold a school of instruction in Masonic hall tomorrow (Friday). The school will start at 1:30 in the afternoon and again at 7:30 in the evening, and all members are cordially urged to attend.

Mrs. Alice Evans, Grand Esther, of Rockford, will be present.

Miss Prescott and Miss Munger Brides

Yesterday afternoon with the simple but impressive marriage ceremony of the Christian church Miss Genevieve Prescott, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Prescott of North Galena avenue, and J. E. Wirth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wirth of 423 Douglas avenue, this city, were united in marriage at the parsonage to the Christian church, with Rev. B. H. Cleaver, pastor of the church officiating.

The ceremony took place at 2 o'- clock, the bride a sweet and attractive Dixon girl, wearing a lovely gown of ashes of roses georgette over satin of the same shade, her corsage being of roses and fresia.

The young couple were attended by Miss Geraldine Munger of Walnut, a cousin of the bride, as maid of honor,
 and by Robert Bowen, also of Walnut,
 as the best man.

After the ceremony uniting in marriage Mr. and Mrs. Wirth, and the congratulations, they in turn were attendants for Miss Munger and Mr.
 Bowen, who were also married, with Rev. Cleaver again officiating at the beautiful service.

Miss Munger, a charming young woman, who has visited in Dixon at the home of her cousin, Miss Prescott, many times, was handsomely gowned in henna satin.

After reparing to the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Prescott, the young brides and bridesmaids essayed a quiet departure by auto to start on the double honeymoon, but their friends felt that they were being cheated in not having a hand in the festivities, so made life merry for them for a time. Rockford was their destination last evening, and they later expect to go to Madison and Beloit, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. Wirth has taken an apartment in the West End of town and will reside here. Mrs. Wirth who lived in Dixon all her life and attended school here has hosts of friends who wish her happiness and congratulate Mr. Wirth, who is an alert and genial young man and who is very popular, is assisting George Campbell in the latter's drug store.

While Mr. and Mrs. Bowen are not so well known in Dixon as the former couple, they have made many friends here and are receiving the best wishes of all. They will reside in Walnut.

Auxiliary V. F. W. Gave Program

The Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Horace F. Ott Post,
 No. 540, held a meeting in Union hall
 Tuesday evening with a good attendance present.

There was a splendid program and an interesting and happy evening was spent by all.

The program included a reading by Mrs. Lucy Rosbrook, president of the Auxiliary, on the birthdays of two of the nation's greatest men, Washington and Lincoln.

Mrs. Gertrude Coakley read the history of the Auxiliary for the past year.

After the program nice refreshments were served and a happy hour of social converse was enjoyed before dispersing.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN DIXON FROM ASHTON GAZETTE—

Harry L. Quick and family and Attorney and Mrs. Grover W. Gehant of Dixon were guests Sunday at the home of Mrs. Anna Quick and daugh-

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stevens and Miss Audrey Evans spent Saturday in Dixon and attended the show, "The Ten Commandments," and took supper with Mrs. Stevens' sister, Mrs. Joseph O. Webster.

Mr. Howard Stevens, Miss Erma
 Stevens and Miss Marjory Greer of Dixon were Sunday afternoon guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Schrieber.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wagner spent Saturday and Sunday visiting at the home of Mr. Wagner's mother, Mrs.
 Anna Wagner at Dixon.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent E. Arnold and son were guests Saturday at the

PUZZLES AND BRAINS.

The Teachers' College of Columbia university, in New York, is conducting a series of cross-word puzzle tests for grammar schools, high schools, colleges and professional schools. The purpose is to find out whether working on cross-word puzzles is really educational—whether it develops and equips the brain for general usefulness or is a waste of time and brain power, and whether the puzzles should be introduced into all the school courses.

The world may await patiently the result of this undertaking. But from general observation of the way human brains function, any observer may hazard a guess at the forthcoming conclusions of the highbrow experimenters.

They will probably discover again the familiar fact that we learn to do anything by doing it, increasing by experience our mental power and facility—for doing the same thing. Also that there may be some slight by-product of power and skill which can be turned to the doing of other mental tasks.

In other words, the chief benefit from doing cross-word puzzles will be added ability to do cross-word puzzles. So if that is one's chosen life work, very well—go ahead, and keep everlastingly at it.

If it is more important to gain power and facility in mathematics, language work, history, geography, physics, chemistry, etc., then perhaps the schools had better concentrate on them. For besides being useful in themselves, they are more likely to develop the learner's mental powers generally, because they represent organized systems of human knowledge which fit naturally into each other in the development of all-round education.

Cross-word work merely gives a glimpse here and there, as the puzzle fan chases words and synonyms through the dictionary and encyclopedia, and the result is not organized knowledge, but a sort of verbal chaos tending to scatter-brainedness. The one thing developed is the will to keep at a thing not worth keeping at, except for time-killing education.

One pork-barrel system under which congressmen vied with one another for pork in the shape of public buildings—postoffices, etc.—seems about to be shelved, under the economic suggestion of President Coolidge. The house at Washington passed a bill authorizing the appropriation of $150,000,000 for public buildings in the six-year period beginning with 1925. The senate is likely to pass this bill also, then of course the president will sign it. This is not an appropriation bill, it is rather a bill to limit expenditures for public buildings. It is stipulated that one-sixth of the amount must be given to Washington, which has need of additional public buildings. The system by which one congressman and said to another, "You vote for my postoffice building at Smith's Crossroads and I will vote for your building in the chief city of your district, and we will both get votes by it"—this system will be ended. Under it vastly more than $25,000,000 a year was appropriated for public buildings. The new bill does not really appropriate the money. But when a building is needed the secretary of the treasury and the postmaster general rushed to congress and ask that money be appropriated for it, which congress may grant or deny.

TAX ON FAT.

This will be unwelcome news for fat persons. Dr. Lulu Hunt Ueters of New York, feminist author and authority on dietetics, proposes a tax on those who tote excess poundage. Newspapers quote her as declaring fat persons a social liability.

She says they take up more room than the law allows in street cars and theaters, that they eat more than their share of the world's supply and do less work. She would remove them, or have their fat removed, as a means of beautifying any city!

Most of those inclined to embon-point will say, "Very good; then show us how to get thin."

Man doesn't deliberately court a "bay window." So why penalize the fat for a condition even more annoying to them than to others?

Why not tax the Adonises and "perfect thirty-sixes" for the complacency they enjoy?

DENMARK.

Recent improvements in Danish currency has brought it to the highest point reached since late in 1923. So our Department of Commerce informs you.

Good prospects for a loan of $40,000,000 are partly responsible for this. Appreciation of the Danish crown will tend to increase Denmark's purchase of feeds and grains in the United States. And, already, American exports to Denmark have risen to exceptionally high levels.

Others' prosperity is our prosperity.

Democrats of the Missouri legislature are considering the enactment of a bill providing a month's imprisonment as the penalty for the atrocious crime of smoking a cigar, cigarette or pipe in public, and the democrats of the Kentucky general assembly have adopted by an all but unanimous vote a bill prohibiting the teaching of modern science in the public schools of that state. It seems that republicans have no monopoly on blue laws."

BY CHESTER H. ROWELL

A British writer attributes the cleanliness and sanitation, which are the most striking thing in America, to the large immigration from countries of low standards of cleanliness. Because our people would not keep clean except under compulsion, we proceeded to make everything and everybody clean by law.

A better explanation would be American democracy, advertising, and progress. Because we are democratic, we all want whatever the best have. Because of advertising, we all know what that is. And because good plumbing is the newest thing, because plumbers are among the best advertised, and because we all want to be up to date, we have transformed ourselves, in one short generation, into the most luxuriously cleanly people the world ever knew.

If there were some way of making the inaugural ceremonies really impressive to the people, of the importance and dignity of the presidential office, and of the national government, which it symbolizes, no reasonable expense or display would be too much. The theatrics of government are a legitimate part of its authority. In some countries gaudiness adds to the dramatic effect. In others, simplicity. Tawdriness and commercialism add to it nowhere. This is what Washington inaugurations have tended to show. President Coolidge's insistence, therefore, on a simple inaugural, is not only an expression of his own simple character, but is also a step toward a real and permanent reform.

PRESIDENTS AND CIRCUSES

President Coolidge wants no fuss about his inaugural, but he does propose to make a trip around the country, to get acquainted with the people, and to let them get acquainted with him. It is, of course the best possible way to bring the people and the president into personal touch, and that is a good thing to do. It will be particularly pleasant in the case of President Coolidge, since it will introduce the people to a personality of real distinction, where many of them have been led to expect a pale and negative personality.

But let us take warning. We have usually killed the last two presidents by the way we "entertained" them. Roosevelt's life was shortened partly by the same thing. Garfield and McKinley were sacrificed to our inhuman democratic accessibility of the president. Harrison was not physically killed, but his temper was spoiled.

President Coolidge, fortunately, is young, strong and cool. He will survive our worst. But he should be spared it. The president has to be a show, but he does not have to be a circus. Especially, he does not have to be subjected to the ambition of seven million people to see him separately and personally, one at a time. If committees will consider the president's convenience, and also the convenience of the crowds collectively, but will ignore the desires of individuals and small groups to have what it would be impossible for everybody to have, human limits can be preserved, and the president can get back to Washington, not only alive, but sound.

CLOTHES MAKE THE MAN

"What are you selling?" asked the scare-crow.

"Hello!" said the Scare Crow to Mister Peg Leg and Nancy and Nick. "Where are you going?"

"We're peddling," said Nick.

"What's peddling?" asked the Scare Crow. "Is it anything like plowing?"

"No," laughed Mister Peg Leg, the fairy peddler man. "It isn't like it at all. It's selling. I'm trying to make enough money to buy a new peg leg for myself. Mine is wearing off."

"Well, well, well!" said the Scare Crow. "I hadn't noticed it before, but your leg is just alike—yours and mine. I must be a peg leg, too!"

"That's right," said Mister Peg Leg. "We're twins just like these children here."

"What are you selling?" asked the Scare Crow.

"Everything," said Mister Peg Leg. "Everything from spoon-holders to wigs. Would you like to buy something?"

"Yes, I certainly would!" sighed the Scare Crow. "When my man, the farmer, dressed me, he didn't leave any money in the pockets of his old clothes. I'm broke!"

"Yes, I did notice that you were bending," said Mister Peg Leg. "But I didn't think you were quite that bad."

The Scare Crow laughed. "I don't mean that way. I said I was 'broke'. That means I have no money."

"Oh, excuse me!" said Mister Peg Leg.

"You're excused," said the Scare Crow. "My straw feelings are not easily hurt."

formal ceremony of counting and announcing the vote. That was all. Practically, the election was held in November, and the newspapers counted the vote the next day.

Theoretically, the electors held the election in January, in their various state capitals, and congress counted the vote, in February. Nobody announced or certified who was elected. The whole thing is an empty form, and even the form is incomplete.

It is liable to remain an empty form, for a long time. But some day the thing will happen which LaFollette's candidacy for a time seemed to threaten. Then we will wonder why the form was not made right in 1925, after the last warning.

CITY OF FUTURE BIG AS STATE?

Los Angeles claims that it will be the third city in the United States in 1940. San Francisco boosters claim that San Francisco will be the biggest city in the world, by 1950 or 1960. And both seem to think it is important.

Why should anybody care? By 1940 perhaps there will be no cities, or none that anybody can see where they begin and end. Cities used to have to be within walking distance of their market places. Then they had to be within carriage drive of their business centers. Then they grew to electric car, and then to automobile size. Already they are getting too crowded to have a "business center."

They will have to have several. Then it will make no difference how many of these there are, or how far apart. Finally, in the age these prophets are talking about, a city will be compact enough if its inhabitants are within radio hearing and within airplane distance of each other. A city a thousand miles across, with great facts and open spaces within its limits, will be as feasible as any other. And that will not be a city.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Here have we no continuing city, but we seek one to come.—Heb. 13:14.

Death, thou art infinite; it is life is little.—Bible.

There was a decrease of about 183,000 head, or nearly 4 per cent, in the number of sheep and lambs on feed Jan. 1, in the corn belt and western states. The estimated number this year was 4,081,000.

New Way to Quickly Stop Worst Cough

A remarkable new and simple method for treating a cough gives relief with the first doses and usually breaks a severe cough in 24 hours.

The treatment is based on the prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You take just one teaspoonful and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing. You follow with water. The cough loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. People have been astonished how quickly the coughing stopped with this new treatment, and it quickly restores condition goes in a very short time.

The prescription is for coughs, chest colds, hoarseness, bronchitis, spasmodic croup, etc. It is excellent for children as well as grownups—no harmful drugs. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. At all good druggists. Ask for

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY FOR COUGHS

Thousands have kidney trouble and never suspect it.

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing, be sure to mention this paper.

Mr. Mann's Earache

MR. MANN'S EARACHE

Children were not the only ones in the home of Mrs. Mann who had to be looked after.

Mr. Mann would get sick occasionally, and when he was ailing, everyone had to wait on him.

One night he had the earache. He could not eat supper, and he would not look at the evening paper.

Mrs. Mann knew a good remedy that the doctor had told her, however. So she filled the hot water bag and had Mr. Mann lie with the aching ear pressed against the bag.

Heat is one of the best remedies for earache, she told him. If she had had no hot water bag, a piece of flannel, heated over a lamp, even, and placed against the ear, would have proved effective. Sometimes these remedies do not work. And then Mrs. Mann found that syringing the ear with hot water afforded a relief.

The water should be about 105 or 110 degrees Fahrenheit. Babies who have earache should be taken to an ear specialist and a careful examination of the ears made.

Back about 1870, James N. Wellman developed a secret tobacco process which won instant and widespread favor. It yielded a fuller-bodied richness, mildness and fragrance which just seemed to go with a pipe. No one else ever knew his secret until we acquired "Wellman's Method" and by its means made Granger Rough Cut.

MME. GEORGETTE'S METHOD TO BEAUTIFY THE NECK

The First Step

a first step in acquiring a beau neck is cleanliness. Because the is so frequently rubbed by soiled collars and furs, it has a chance accumulate more dirt than any part of the body.

For with a cleansing cream or with soap suds and a complexion manipulates the pores until have no other alternative than field every particle of grime they collected during the day.

quic Dip your clean fingers into the building cream and with your ward, begin at your chin and work each the base of the throat, then an about change of course and around the neck with a slightly Told molding movement until your hands meet at the base of the n. If your neck is inclined to be use a fairly heavy stroke, if wish to build it up use a light skillish touch.

If You Must Relax

at these several times, and as you pulate your flesh, make yourself if. Nearly every woman who is keener nervous tension involun If stiffens her neck. That is the reason the cords become prominent and we have the "stringy" effect that so suggests age and ill health.

If your neck looks brown and discolored, there is no better bleach than lemon juice diluted with rose water. When you have completed the mas sage, remove every vestige of cold cream and go over the surface with a mild astringent. Then follow with an ice rub, having the ice in a Turkish towel. This will make the flesh firm and solid.

So much for the outside. Then practice these exercises for beautifying the muscular structure beneath. Sit in a comfortable position, with the shoulders erect and the head held naturally and turn the head as far as you can to the right, then to the left. Look as far as you can over either shoulder, but avoid stiffness or under strain.

Rotating the Head

Then let your head hang lifeless and rotate it to describe a circle, using the neck for an axis. Keep the shoulders relaxed and in their natural position. Both these exercises should be done with a controlled, deliberate motion without jerkiness or strain. Try to think of yourself as a graceful swan, incapable of an inborn motion or unlovely motion. Practice before a mirror if necessary.

For a double chin I know of no better remedy than heavy massage, and stretching exercises. Drop the head as far back on the spine as possible and blow or whistle in that position. The fat on the back of the neck can be reduced only by heavy pressure, general reduction, and correct posture. Your neck will repay you for your care.

ATTIC BUILDERS BIGGER FACTOR IN RADIO THAN EVER

ability to Purchase Parts Makes Them of

in every stage of the development ing radio, from the beginning down to 000 present, the number of homemade as has largely exceeded the number wit assembled sets bought readymade. Not only have the majority of radio covers built sets for their own use, bill the growth of radio has been ingred by an increasing number of giv at have come to be called "attic ulars interested in radio and skill in the use of their hands, who have t only built sets for themselves but Creve made something of a business of iding sets for other people, either pleasure of profit.

With such individuals who have waned their attic into a little radio kshops have made a good income no ere are several thousands such per neas who are "attic manufacturers" of ers for their friends, relatives, neigh and sometimes for radio, con foras. Some advertise to the general blic that they will build or repair ts, usually specializing in some well own circuit.

One man in a New York suburb no conducted a garage found that he uid earn more money making sets an he could repairing automobiles. He put some one in charge of the driage and he is constructing several dio sets a week and making ex- lent wages.

The great majority of the attic anufacturers, however, make sets ring spare time and on holidays and tuesday afternoons. In fact the of riter even heard of one heathen thom he suspected of working at a k-break-up on Sunday.

an These attic manufacturers are an portant factor in radio, and recently y have become more important gain ever before. There was a time ring the last year or so when the umber dropped off from what it had en previously. This was due to the th that the market for a while was ooded with cheap sets. Many per ns bought such sets in haste and th pent at leisure when they discov ed glaring defects and especially hen they got out of order and no ser vice facilities were available.

The "attic manufacturers" on the her hand, usually build sets from dard parts sold by brand names. ad if anything, goes wrong with the sets there is both the guarantee of the manufacturer and the service which the manufacturer, or the parts' man ufacturer, provides. For instance, one well known parts manufacturer, which dominates the amplifying trans former field, maintains seven service stations in various parts of the coun try in which it renders free service to owners and builders of sets using their parts. These have been a tre mendously popular feature of the company's service to radio builders and users, and many letters and call ers comment on the value of such service.

A company which has from the be ginning catered to amateurs wishing to build their own sets, had distributed three-quarters of a million copies of a treatise on set building, and this has become a handbook among radio fans and attic manufacturers every where. Individuals wishing a set, and who do not feel that they could build one themselves (though 2 out of 10 of them could because of the clear and understandable diagrams, or if they did not wish to construct the whole set could get a knock-down kit set, such as the Acme Kit Set for in stance) would not have to look long among their friends to find an "attic manufacturer" who either for the fun of the job, or for a small fee, would build a set for him.

It can readily be seen that the "attic manufacturer" is one of the factors which has made radio the great industry it has become in such a few short years.

PUP FIGHTS SNAKES

Melbourne, Australia—A young pup here is the terror of snakes. It has been bitten at least 10 times by poisonous snakes, but the venom has no effect on it. The pup tries to kill every snake it sees, and after each fight it runs for a small pond, plunging in and stays for a few minutes. This process seems to give the dog immunity from the poisonous bites. The pup has killed at least 20 snakes and is only a year old.

More than 60,000 "tin-can" tourists visited Yellowstone National Park last summer, camping out with their own equipment.

Joie Ray Will Attempt to Lower Connolly's Mark

New York, Feb. 19.—Joie Ray will attempt to lower Jimmy Connolly's world's indoor record of 2.43 3-5 for two-thirds of a mile next Tuesday at the indoor meet at Madison Square Garden for the benefit of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Connolly will be on hand to defend his records while Lloyd Hahn, Leo Larabee and Willie Goodwin are also being sought as entrants.

British Boxers Won Two of Their Bouts in N. Y.

New York, Feb. 19.—British amateur boxers last night won two of their four final bouts at Madison Square Garden.

Jack Elliott, in the 160 pound class, and H. J. Mitchell at 175 pounds, defeated Raymond Foy and Stanley Shannons of Pittsburgh.

George Gogay, 135 pounds and Jas. O'Hanrahan, 147, were eliminated in the semi-finals by Tommy Lown, New York lightweight champion, and Hugh Haggerty of Pittsburgh.

Ritola Failed to Lower
Any Marks in His Races

New York, Feb. 19.—Willie Ritola, striving to equal performances of Pello Nurmi attempted to set marks in two races in different meets last night, but failed.

Ritola at the Prudential Insurance company contests in Newark, ran three miles in 14 minutes, 12 2-5 seconds.

Then at Brooklyn in the Knights of St. Anthony meet, he covered two miles in 8 minutes 20 4-5 seconds, far behind the time accomplished by Nurmi Saturday. Joie Ray of Chicago, in a 1000 yard race, lost to George Masters of Georgetown University. At Newark he won the mile in 4:38 1-5 from Willie Goodwin of the New York A. C. and Jimmy Connolly of Washington.

Romano Easy Picking
for Wayne "Big" Munn

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 19.—Wayne "Big" Munn, world's heavyweight wrestling title claimant, used the same tactics by which he defeated Strangler Lewis and Stanislaus Zbyszko to throw Mike Romano, Italian, to the mat twice in six minutes and seconds of grappling here last night.

The giant Nebraskan lifted his opponent with a crotch and half Nelson high above his head and hurled him to the mat stunning him. The first fall came after six minutes and three seconds and the second lasted 47 seconds.

The Italian took two swings at Munn when the latter bore down on him at the start of the second fall, but an instant later he was hoisted in the air and pitched to the mat.

At the start of the third fall, Romano again tried to throw Munn, but was again hoisted in the air and pitched to the mat.

Managers of Two Valley
League Teams Suspended

Chicago, Feb. 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—Managers of two clubs in the Mississippi Valley League, today were suspended for a year by M. H. Sexton, president of the National Association of baseball leagues, as punishment for releasing secret side agreements with players.

The managers are Cletus L. Dixon of the 1924 pennant winning Waterloo club and Jack Lacy, pilot of the Marshalltown, Ia. club, last season. The suspensions are dated March 1.

Lacy, President Sexton announced, was found guilty of paying a bonus to a player for signing, promising him a percentage of his sale or draft price and also secretly giving him release from reservation. The player was Philip Turner, who was fined $125.

The Waterloo club was fined $500 and the player involved, Orvid McCracken, was fined $100. In addition he was denied his release and ordered to report to the Milwaukee club which had purchased him.

Dixon, President Sexton said, was convicted of inducing McCracken to sign two contracts for the purpose of fraud and deception. It was charged that McCracken received a sum of money in addition to the amount stipulated in his contract; that he had been promised his release and the close of the 1924 season and that while Manager Dixon was negotiating for his services for 1924 made certain promises which were not incorporated in the contract.

WATER RATES IN DIXON

A careful comparison shows that the City of Dixon is favored with water rates considerably lower than those enjoyed by the majority of cities throughout the country, either municipally or corporately owned. Moreover the furnishing corporation, The Dixon Water Company, pays its full quota of city taxation annually.

THE DIXON FRUIT COMPANY

(By V. S. Mullen.)

One of the most conclusive evidences that a city has reached the metropolitan stage and may rightfully lay claim to being the accepted metropolis of its surrounding trade territory is the fact that it is capable of supporting various wholesale institutions.

Prominent among the wholesale interests of Dixon at the present time and a firm which is steadily increasing in the volume of business transacted as well as gaining prestige throughout the field it covers is the Dixon Fruit Company, Inc. This firm was first established in Dixon in a small building near the bridge on Rock River in 1917 by Frank Suter, he realizing that the city offered an opportunity for the establishment and maintenance of an enterprise of this nature. The success which has been accorded the institution is conclusive evidence of the keen business perception of the management and shows what good clean business methods coupled with a high quality merchandise properly serviced will accomplish.

The original stock consisted entirely of a few lines of fresh fruits and vegetables purchased through Chicago houses and sold principally to local firms. However, only items of the better quality were selected and this standard of high quality soon increased the volume of business and steadily extended the trade radius of the firm.

Today the products distributed by the Dixon Fruit Company embraces everything the market affords in the line of choice fresh fruits and vegetables and a variety of staple products for which there is an established steady demand, such as Jelke Good Luck Oleomargarine, sugar, salt, flour, condensed milk, poultry feeds, etc. Much of this merchandise as well as numerous varieties of the fruit line like apples, bananas, oranges and potatoes are purchased in carload lots and shipped here direct from the source of production. Other lines less staple like green vegetables, quickly perishable fruits that must be turned quickly to reach the consumer in first-class condition are ordered in carload lots through an affiliation the local firm maintains with similar houses at Sterling and Freeport. Upon arrival at one of these houses the shipment is divided among them.

During the past few years, the company's trade territory has been gradually expanded until at the present time it covers approximately a forty-mile radius. Three salesmen make regular routes to the surrounding towns while two salesmen call on the trade in Dixon.

Besides the main building which is well equipped with refrigeration and heated banana rooms, Mr. Suter erected a new building during 1924 which joins the old and which gives a present floor space of about 45,000 square feet. A part of this new building is occupied under lease by the Highway Department of the State of Illinois, and a part by George Howell and Fred Eicholtz, expert machinists.

The success of the out-of-town business is attributed to the truck delivery.

Mr. Suter is one who has stood out for service and with the fleet of trucks the trade are able to get deliveries in quick time than from any other point.

In conjunction with its wholesale interests, this firm also operates a transfer and storage business. In these days of good road development the transfer business has become of large importance. It has been proven unprofitable for the railroads to handle the shorter distance hauls and the truck is gradually taking its place as the vehicle of transportation for hauls within a distance of a hundred miles. The truck has the advantage of being able to get the commodity at its primary shipping point and deliver it to its final destination without any breaks or transfers between.

In addition to the offices, the firm maintains a fire-proof storage space which complies with all the requirements of the fire underwriters as to insurance. This warehouse is used for the storage of household goods or merchandise on consignment or to any other purpose to which a storage house can be put. Crating and packing in the proper way is another feature of this service which is attractive to the householder or those having merchandise to ship.

In this connection Mr. Suter and several of the men employed by him thoroughly understand the specifications and requirements demanded by the railroad company for acceptance, and thus much delay and breakage in shipping is prevented. This branch of the business is operated along the lines of giving thorough satisfaction at reasonable prices.

The WELL DRESSED MAN By BEAUNASH

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

The Shawl-Collar Pull-Over

Unless a man's dress is controlled by selective sense and individual taste, then style becomes merely a rivalry in mimicry. To wear a thing merely because it is "the thing" is the spirit of the hinge-kneed flunkey. As Sam Walter Foss wrote in "The Calf Path" 20 years ago: "A hundred thousand men were led by one calf near three centuries dead; they followed still his crooked way and lost a hundred years a day; for thus such reverence is lent to well-established precedent." You see a fashion worn by somebody else. It is picturesque, colorful, striking. It makes the wearer stand out in a crowd. You resolve forthwith to "get one just like it." You do, and you are sorely disappointed. Perhaps, Friend Wife rubs salt into the wound by inquiring, in honeyed accents with the sting of the bee in them, where the masquerade is going to be held.

Simple styles are becoming to ninety-nine men in a hundred and may safely be adopted. Unusual styles; whether in cut or color, only flatter the old man and should be chosen with care and always with reference to the wearer's height, build, complexion and cast of features. Unless you are exceptionally endowed by nature—a sort of composite of Apollo, the Greek and Valentino, the Shiek—you might as well make up your mind that there are certain fashions and colors that do not favor you and that you should habitually avoid. It may be hard to do, but it is wise to do it.

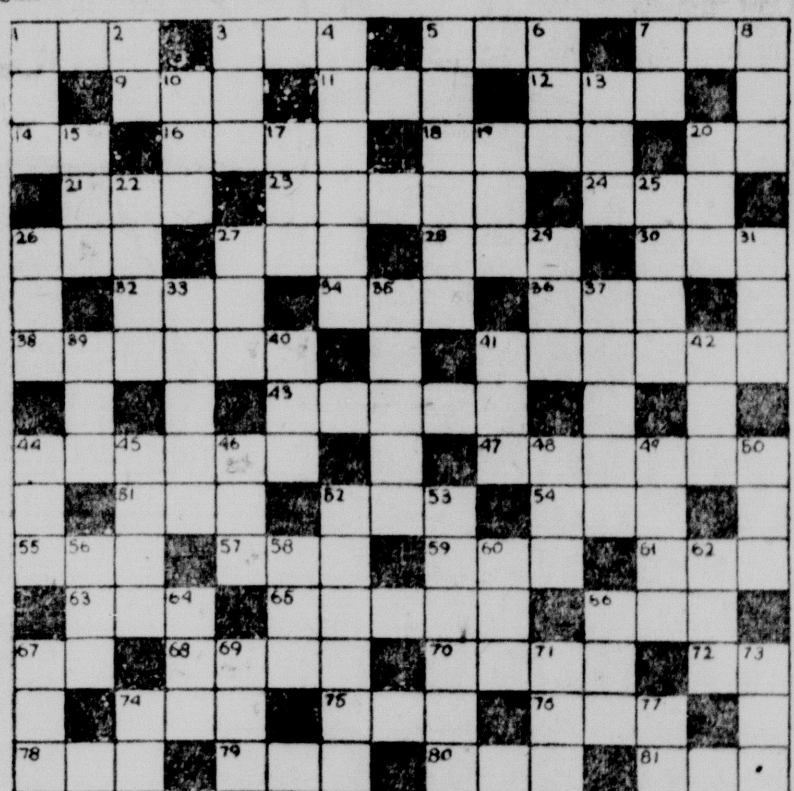

Take, for example, the knitted sweater or "jumper," as it is termed in England. There are two general types—the coat style and the pull-over. The pull-over is only becoming to the man who is slender, because it silhouettes the figure sharply. If you are inclined to breadth or flesh, wear the coat style, because the long line of the buttons down the front breaks the bulky look of the garment. Perhaps it seems "strange all this difference should be twixt Tweedledum and Tweedledee," but correct dress is made up of just such apparent trifles. Study what you look best in. Shun what is only becoming to the other fellow.

The sweater, pictured in the accompanying sketch, is the pull-over model having a wide, curved shawl collar terminating in a single button. The body of the garment is a solid shade; the collar, cuffs and waistband are in a vividly contrasting color; whether college, club, fraternity or regimental. Sweaters without collars come with V, round or square neck openings, as preferred.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ALDEN DRAKE, formerly a sailor, grown soft and flabby through a life of idle ease, ships aboard the clipper Oreantes as "boy," under the command of—

JAKE STEVENS, whose enmity he incurs because of a mutual love for—

MARY MANNING, daughter of the owner, who is a passenger. At Cape Town, Stevens is superseded as captain by Drake, whose lawyers have purchased the Oreantes during its cruise. In his new role of master, Drake becomes cold and dignified in the presence of Mary. Stevens, now chief mate, finds time to follow his suit. After drinking too heavily one night, Jake enters Mary's cabin and embraces her. Mary screams. Drake and the steward run to her. Now, realizing that Stevens is an old friend, Mary seeks to protect him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Oh, I was dreaming," she cried. "Did I cry out?"

And Jake, stealthily loosing her so that he might be unhampered to meet the attack he knew must come, suddenly saw the glimmer of light she showed him and answered: "I heard you as I came off watch. Dreaming, wasn't you, Miss Mary?"

He still glared darkly, reading the unbelieving challenge in Drake's eyes. He silently tried to conceal a great French knife in a sleeve only half long enough, but he made no effort to conceal the look of accusation he leveled at Stevens. Drake went to the bedside, meeting Jake's gaze squarely as he pushed by.

"What happened, Mary?" demanded Drake sharply. He laid a hand on her forehead, and felt the starting moisture. He noted the agitation of her breast. The faces of her night dress still fluttered. "Are you sure you were only dreaming?"

"Oh yes. Such a horrid dream!" She hid her face in the pillow. "Don't talk about it, please. I was so glad to wake up and see Mr. Stevens near me. Alden, I was so frightened I would have been glad to see any body, but I'm all right. Please don't bother about me."

"Very well. But if you are going to have more bad dreams, I'd suggest that you lock your cabin door. Good night."

The steward stood aside as Stevens preceded the skipper into the saloon. He felt that there ought to be, might be yet, opportunity to put the edge of that big knife to the test. Poor Jake was no warrior. He was scared cold at the threat of bloodshed. But he was willing to fight for old Captain Manning's daughter if need be, and surely he had believed he was going to fight when he grabbed that big knife and darted out at Mary's cry. And for a moment he believed he saw blood in the eyes of the two strong men facing each other outside Mary's closed door.

"That'll do, Mr. Stevens, thank you," the skipper said quietly. "I congratulate you upon the amazing promptness you showed in answering Miss Manning's outcry."

"Happened to be handy," growled Jake, and lurched off to his berth. Drake stood for a moment, sniffing hard. He scuttled away feeling disgusted at the ending of so promising an encounter.

As if the ship's barometer registered the pressure of human emotions as well as of atmosphere, there settled upon the ship a sense of portent not entirely due to the gathering of storm clouds following the falling of the mercury.

Mary still employed her leisure hours on deck working at her sheep skin border; watching one by one the sails clewed up, furled, and storm gasketed. The preparations for the imminent gale were long adding, as the storm seemed long coming. But other when nobody else would fight them, though they were fast cronies. Old Joe Hunting had kept them in check a bit; Nick Combs had helped. They were afraid of those two seasoned old salts.

Mary saw the sea rise, heard the gale begin to howl; then she took her fancy work below, clothed herself in storm clothes, and returned to the deck to watch the big ship battle against the elements. Towards evening the skies were altogether sooty, and the low clouds scudded across the mastsheads with terrific speed. Heaping seas rolled up out of the immensity of the southern ocean, rising at the speeding ship's flanks, gurgling ghoulishly as they looked aboard over the six foot bulwarks and dropped a few tons of water on the maindeck as a reminder of their

MARRIAGE MADE IN HEAVEN? "NOT ALWAYS," SAYS DIVINE

BY ROY J. GIBBONS
NEA Service Writer

Chicago—Not all marriages are made in heaven.

The church has failed to do its part in preparing young persons for matrimony.

Dr. John Thompson, pastor of Chicago's "skyscraper" church in the heart of the "loop," started his congregation by making the above statements.

But he left some of the members of the First Methodist Episcopal church aghast when he added that divorce is justifiable in some cases, "where couples are not joined by God."

Bible students have placed incorrect interpretations on Jesus' ideas of marriage and divorce, Dr. Thompson believes.

Why Not?

"The fact that two people are joined in marriage by a minister, rabbi or judge is not proof that the marriage has the sanction of God. In the mind of Jesus, when there is true marriage there is no divorce. If it is found the marriage is not a true one, that the couple was not joined by God, why should not the tie be broken by lawful divorce?" he asks.

"The church has not correctly interpreted words 'What God has joined together, let no man put asunder.'"

"If the marriage is a Godless one, though performed in the name of the church, why not divorce?"

Society has made great strides in its efforts to correct the divorce evil, Dr. Thompson says.

"In Jesus' day, a Roman could send his wife away in the same way that he would dismiss a servant."

Need Help

"Today a divorce is effected only after the case is tried, evidence given and judgment rendered by a court. There is an entire moral continent of difference between the two methods."

"Jesus was progressive, always up-to-date, always 'supersuperior.' He had not preservation of institutions, was the keynote of his teaching."

"The legislation of the church is defective at this point. The church legislates against remarriage. She has put her angel with the flaming sword at the exit of marriage."

"But the church has no angel of instruction or guidance for young people to the marriage Eden. I do not know of any church in the land that gives organized instruction to young persons concerning the most vital step in human life."

Uniform Laws

"We legislate against the possibility of young correcting a mistake and readjusting their lives. But we take no step to protect them from that mistake."

The only remedy for the so-called divorce evil, he believes, is a uniform divorce law for every state. Such a law would abolish free and easy methods of obtaining divorces in some states.

"Something must be done or our home life will break down. If the home breaks down, the nation breaks down, also, for all the blood in the nation comes from the home," he adds.

WED IN PRISON

Tokyo—A pretty Japanese maiden didn't have the money to buy her bridal kimono. She couldn't resist the temptation of shoplifting one. Store detectives saw her and sent her to jail. The bridegroom's love was so ardent that he insisted on going to jail with her, and the couple were married behind the bars. The husband donned the prison uniform, determined to stay in jail as long as his bride does.

PEACE, LIBERTY OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IS URGED

Subordination of Theological Differences Asked By Signers.

Auburn, N. Y.—(By The Associated Press)—A statement entitled "For Peace and Liberty," signed by 31 members of the Correspondence Committee, composed of Presbyterian ministers from many parts of the country, was issued today by Professor R. H. Nichols, of Auburn Theological Seminary, secretary of the committee. In giving it out Professor Nichols emphasized the fact that the statement was not a manifesto of any theological party, but an appeal for liberty within the Presbyterian church for the holding of various forms of evangelical Christian belief, and for subordinating theological differences to united work for the world. The statement and the names of the signers are as follows:

"In view of recent acts which are disturbing the peace of our church and threatening the liberties of its office-bearers, we, the undersigned ministers, make this statement to the thousands of our brethren who may not know all the facts but who, we are assured, agree with us in ardent desire to preserve the unity of the church."

"The affirmation issued in 1924, signed by over 1200 of our ministers, asserted the historic freedom of teaching, within evangelical bounds, guaranteed to ministers of our communion. The General Assembly of 1924 agreed with the position taken in the affirmation by rejecting as unconstitutional an overture which sought to require of certain officers of the church subscription to particular interpretations of the standards set forth in deliverances of general assemblies."

"In spite of this decision of our highest court, efforts are still being made to impose these doctrinal interpretations upon ministers, and in effect to apply to members of the boards and other church officers the very tests which the assembly declared unconstitutional. A letter has been widely circulated which insinuates dishonesty on the part of some of our ministers and asserts that unbelief is widespread among them, and therefore urges agitation to inform the people of the church of these alleged conditions for the purpose of securing the election of what are called loyal commissioners to the next general assembly."

"Such actions are fomenting a spirit of division, casting unwarranted suspicion on the loyalty and candor of faithful ministers, threatening the disruption of our church and hindering that concentration of our energies on Christian ministry to the world which is the heart of our church desires."

"Therefore, we appeal to our brethren in the presbyteries to stand firmly for the maintenance of our historic

EVERETT SANDERS 'SOLD' HIMSELF TO HIS WIFE WHILE SELLING HER SHOES

NEA Service

Washington—Rumor has it that the wedding bells played "School Days" as Everett Sanders, recently appointed secretary to President Coolidge, and his bride marched up the old church aisle.

If by chance this wasn't the tune they played, it was the bells' error—for the wedding took place when both bride and groom were students, just turning the half-way mark in their schooling.

It was a "School Days" romance all the way through.

Sanders was the son of a country minister, who augmented his meager salary as minister of a Baptist Mission church in the Indiana coal fields by working a small farm near the town of Coalmont.

The Rev. James Sanders and his wife were desperately poor—yet when Everett was born, in 1882, they determined that despite their poverty he should have at least the advantages of an education.

When he was 13 they started to fulfill this ambition by sending him to the State Normal School, at Terre Haute.

His path at the school was not strewn with roses. When not attending classes he was forced by lack of funds to work in a local shoe store. But every existence his its compensations—and there Everett met Miss Ella Neal.

Miss Neal was a normal school student from Jacksonville—and in almost as short a time as it takes to tell it she was Sanders' fiancée.

The courtship was a whirlwind affair, and they were married in 1903, the year after Sanders' graduation.

At this point it would seem fitting to add "and lived happily ever after."

But such was not the case. They were undoubtedly happy—but they had almost more than their share of troubles.

To School Again

They had been married but a few months when together they entered the University of Indiana, at Bloomington.

At the university, Sanders was a "big man." He was president of his law class and captain of the college basketball team. But all that didn't get him the wherewithal to pay the butcher and grocer. For the student newlyweds it was a "mighty slim pickin'."

Another part-time job in a shoe store pulled them through, however.

and in 1907 Sanders was graduated from the University with a law degree. That same year he was admitted to the Indiana state bar and entered the Terre Haute law firm of McNutt, Wallace, Sanders & Randel.

After that it was smoother sailing. Sanders, a Republican, was elected to the 65th, 66th, 67th and 68th Congresses.

The Sanderses could by no stretch of the imagination be considered rich—but holding a seat in Congress at $7500 a year is a lot better than holding a part-time job in a shoe store.

Fraud of Him.

At the end of the present Congress—the 68th—Sanders intended to quit politics and return to his law practice. Then, all of a sudden he was appointed secretary to the president, succeeding Bascom Simps.

It was quite a surprise—and was Mrs. Sanders pleased?

Here's what she says: "I think it's wonderful! We've enjoyed our stay in Washington so far."

"And now we'll enjoy it still more—get to know the city even better, meet new friends."

"Am I proud of my husband? That is just a foolish question!"

And from the way that she says it, you know that it is.
